Bio
Danny Kane
President
B2X Online, Inc.

Danny Kane, President B2X Online and CEO Kane's Communications Systems continues his drive for excellence by utilizing his extensive knowledge and training in the field of telecommunications. As a child he inherited his fathers abilities in mechanical aptitude and by age twelve had mastered breaking down and reassembly of key components in radio transmission. Choosing the electronic telecommunication field, he pursued his interests further by attending and graduating from Arnold R Burton School of Technology with a degree in telecommunications services. As a major supplier in the region for Motorola 2 way systems, Danny has attended numerous training classes and in fact is one of the first in the nation to be certified by Motorola's latest offering, the Canopy system. His attention to critical details and proven high availability numbers has earned him the trust of critical law enforcement and public safety systems. He therefore was responsible for the Roanoke County 2 Way systems including all major systems and the complex dispatch console. The same system optimization approach that he devised for public safety (where lives are at risk), is a shared best practice he is migrating into the new B2X OnLine offering. The local B2X OnLine is one of the first national offerings of Motorola's exciting new internet connectivity tool for business. The system integrity and fast bug free startup of this new offering is a direct reflection of Danny's knowledge base and his no non-sense approach to problem solving. This level of knowledge is critical to a technological offering like B2X OnLine and separates them from the pack where critical information is at risk.
